Ohio Speech and Hearing Governmental Affairs Coalition
Legislative Activities Report
October 2018

The Ohio Senate returned to action in September to pass four relatively noncontroversial bills. Both chambers will now break until after the General Election in November. When lawmakers return, they will begin lame duck session, which we expect will be extremely active as Governor Kasich intends to push through numerous policy proposals before leaving office. Both legislative houses also have substantial pieces of legislation pending in their chambers, which leaders have identified as priorities before the 132nd General Assembly comes to a close at the end of the year. After the election, the Senate will also likely fill the 20th District seat, which became vacant when Troy Balderson won a special election this summer for Congress.

For GAC, we will be closely watching HB 557 (art therapy) and SB 255 (occupational licensure board renewals) in lame duck. Additional legislation, which has yet to be introduced and will not likely materialize as an issue in lame duck, is the music therapy bill sponsored by Senator Kenny Yuko (D-Cleveland). GAC received a new draft of the bill recently. The redrafted version still creates several concerns, including:

- Referral language, which allows for referrals from family and friends among others, but does not mention referrals from other therapy providers;
- Language which specifically allows music therapists to treat communication disorders;
- Lack of provisions that would prohibit music therapists from billing under SLP or audiology reimbursement codes.

The new draft also still has the music therapists licensed under the Medical Board, which we understand is a concern for that entity. The bill may be introduced this session but will not likely move during lame duck.

Outside of the General Assembly, the Speech and Hearing Professionals Board has been working with the Council of State Governments (CSG) on a Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology Interstate Compact. The draft compact is the result of work over the last year between CSG, the Board and other interested groups. (See draft compact as separate document). Now that the draft is complete, stakeholder will be given a chance to review and comment through mid-January 2019. After that, the drafting team will consider feedback and will present a final recommended compact in March of 2019. After the draft is finalized, CSG will begin the process of educating legislators and state executive branch officials about the compact and developing a comprehensive strategy for enactment.

The Opportunities for Ohioans with Disabilities Agency (OOD – formerly known as RSC) recently announced that it will be holding a series of five regional meetings with providers in the coming weeks to help OOD identify areas within the Vocational Rehabilitation Fee Schedule that could be enhanced to further improve vocational rehabilitation services delivered statewide. GAC members who work in the vocational rehab arena are encouraged to participate. The meetings are scheduled as follows:

On the elections front, Democrat Rich Cordray and Republican Mike DeWine, the two major party candidates for governor, have concluded three scheduled debates prior to the election. Neither candidate held back in attacking his opponent, with Cordray going after DeWine's 42-year career in office and DeWine clamoring that the 2009 financial crisis occurred under Cordray's tenure in statewide office. The candidates have also sparred over numerous topics ranging from the state's opioid crisis, the ECOT scandal, and Issue 1. On the issue of Medicaid, DeWine said he would support a continuation of Medicaid expansion, but with work requirements to "get people back in the game." Mr. Cordray contends that Mr. DeWine joined a lawsuit against the Affordable Care Act and coverage for preexisting conditions.

State Representative Martin Sweeney recently announced that he is resigning from the Ohio House. The Cleveland Democrat served two terms in the Ohio House and previously served as the Cleveland City Council president. Most recently he lost in the Democratic primary election to serve in the Ohio Senate. House Democrats are expected to appoint Bride Rose Sweeney, Martin Sweeney's daughter, to the seat. She won the Democratic primary for the 14th House District and faces no Republican opposition.

Democratic candidates for statewide offices outraised their Republican opponents according to the most recent campaign finance reports. Democrat Richard Cordray raised $2.23 million in September, well above Republican Mike DeWine's $2.04 million in the race for governor. In the race for attorney general, Democrat Steve Dettelbach outraised Republican Dave Yost, reporting $752,578 for the month compared to Yost's $404,084. State Representative Kathleen Clyde outraised Republican Frank LaRose, bringing in $321,865 compared with the Republican's $255,181 in the race for secretary of state. Democrat Zack Space raised over $250,000 for state auditor, almost $50,000 more than his opponent, Republican Keith Faber. Democratic candidate for state treasurer Rob Richardson raised $203,777 compared to Republican Robert Sprague's $161,602.
